REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: Prior art fails to teach or fairly suggest a system for storing and dispensing a plurality of reagents comprising an addressable array of reagent dispensers, a gate mechanism at an outlet region of each dispenser, each gate mechanism being independently operable between an opened condition permitting passage of a respective reagent through the outlet region and a closed condition wherein the passage is blocked. The system further comprising a first support disposed adjacent the array and a second support mounted on the first support wherein the first support is variably positionable to permit placement of a fixed target region thereof in alignment with any selected one of the dispensers in the array and the second support is variably positionable to permit placement of any selected target site of the holding area in alignment with the fixed target region. The system further comprising of a plurality of different reagents disposed in the dispenser passageways including a plurality of bead lots, each lot comprised of a plurality of substantially similar beads carrying a respecting one the different reagents and a plurality of sealed ampules. The system further comprising a field of view extending between the dispenser outlet regions and the second support and the field of view adapted to detect the passage of reagent dispensed from any one the dispensers. The system further comprising of a release mechanism release mechanism operable to apply a secondary force of a magnitude and direction effective to override the normal biasing force so that the gate mechanism assumes the open condition further the gate mechanism includes a magnetic pinch valve having a first and second magnets. The system further comprises a guide member disposed for movement with the first support to a position under any selected dispenser and configured to channel dispensed from the dispenser to a selected site on a holding area of the second support.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
